

Mr. Mohammed Shultan

Place of Residence: North Wales

Sector: Business

Mohammed Shultan was born into a much respected family who lived in the village Mukam Duar, Jalalpur, Dhokin Shurma, Sylhet. He arrived to the UK in the year 1972 where he lived in Oldham, Greater Manchester. Here, he was brought up and educated. He attended Oldham Fitton Hill Junior School and later Heather Shaw High School. After he had finished his primary and secondary education, Mr. Shultan wanted to further his knowledge and therefore decided to go to Oldham College in order to gain A levels. Once he had achieved this, he got himself a job in a textile factory as a slaford winder. During this time, he was also actively part of the Bangladesh Welfare Association in Oldham and the Oldham Bangladesh Youth organization of which he was the public officer for.

In the year 1979, Mohammed Shultan decided to move away from Oldham to a place called Bangor, in North Wales. Now, he wanted to broaden his career and start up his own business. His first ever restaurant business that he opened was the Tandoori Night restaurant. He then went onto further his business and started up another Indian Cuisine which he named Passage to India and he also owned the Mahabharat Restaurant for 18 whole years. Throughout these many years, Mr. Shultan has been especially flourishing and fortunate enough to win many awards as well as have visited various inspiring people such as Sir Wyn Robert the Welsh Minister, Betty Williams a local MP, Rolf Harris and William Thomas, leader of the Welsh political party Plaid Cymru to name a few.

Mr. Shultan is moreover much involved with the Bangladeshi community and with many organizations such as Samaj Khollan Shongsta. He is currently the Chairman of the Bangor Bangladeshi Welfare Association and a Trustee of Bangor Islamic Centre. He is also privileged enough to be the owner of many properties both in the UK and abroad in Bangladesh. His enthusiasm, self confidence and sociable attitude combined with his good management and leadership skills, has allowed him to thrive in life.

Right now, however, Mr. Shultan is semi-retired and making the most of spending time at home with his family. He and his wife have been lucky enough to have five daughters and a son. His eldest daughter Sharmin Shultan is just finishing off her BSc degree in Biomedical Science, second daughter Humayra will be in her final year of Alima course in Jamia Al Huda Madrasa in Nottingham, Tharima Shultan is studying Business Studies and Economics in Bangor University and fourth Daughter Abida is finishing her GCSE's. During his free time, Mohammed Shultan enjoys various activities from swimming, walking and playing football to DIY, reading and cooking.
