26th August, 2016.

Dear Mr. Karim,

The Queen has asked me to thank you and the Editor for the kind letter you have sent on the occasion of the publication of this year’s British Bangladeshi Who’s Who.

Her Majesty was interested to be reminded of your aims of recognising the social and economic contributions made by the British Bangladeshi community in the United Kingdom and sends her warm good wishes to the staff, readers and all those featured in this year’s publication.

Yours sincerely,

Christopher Sandamas
Chief Clerk to The Queen
Message from the High Commissioner

I am delighted that a new edition of the inspiring publication 'British Bangladeshi Who's Who' is about to come out. I appreciate those who have put their collective efforts in recounting our diaspora’s glaring successes in various fields. We take immense pride in their successes.

I strongly believe that the account of accomplishments reflected in the directory would inspire many in Bangladesh community who aim to be high achievers. This again clearly manifests the enterprising spirit of the British Bangladeshi diaspora who have strived in an unfamiliar terrain, and excelled in the diverse areas of business, politics, art, culture, education and services with their ingenuity and diligence.

Bangladesh takes pride in her expatriates living all around the world. They continue to make huge contribution to their host communities and economy. Their commitment to and engagement with their origin is equally admirable. The British-Bangladesh community has remained an inalienable and crucial link between Bangladesh and the UK. They play a significant role, and feature most prominently in our bilateral relations with the UK.

Bangladesh community in the UK has made significant marks over the years. It is their hard work, innovation and commitment to their root that have moved them towards writing a chronicle of success and accomplishment. I strongly believe that the younger generation will find many in the compendium from whom to draw strength, inspiration and confidence in their individual pursuit of excellence. I particularly look up to them to surpass the achievements of their preceding generations.

The publication provides us with an opportunity to celebrate the accomplishments of our community in the UK. I wish the publication continued success.

Md. Nazmul Quaunine
Foreword from the Editor in Chief

Being the Editor in Chief of this publication has proven to be a very arduous task, not least because there is simply so much talent that it is impossible to encapsulate it all in one book.
I always believe that we are a modest and humble community and certainly there are far more hidden gems, however in this year’s edition, like previous years, we have unearthed some real success stories, which will no doubt prove to provide inspiration to others.
The platform the publication provides is not simply for those who featured to showcase their own success but also to be positive role models for the younger generation and to record the excellent work for generations to come.
This is yet another fascinating read, if I can say so myself.
The award winners are truly brilliant!

Foreword from the Editor

During these times where the UK finds itself in unprecedented and unchartered territory, especially following the recent referendum, it has become more important than ever before to highlight the brilliant contributions of migrant communities such as ours to the UK.

Of course we are now third and fourth generation British Bangladeshis and a part of the fabric of society. We are part of the mainstream.

The publication and the profile contained within it do not cease to enlighten me. The lives of the people who feature in the publication are so rich in colour and success.

The youth amongst the British Bangladeshis are making more significant progress than ever before. They are the flag bearers and I believe that British Bangladeshis will continue to go from strength to strength.

We are forever grateful to our sponsors, supporters and well-wishers, for without them the publication would not be where it is today.

I hope you enjoy reading this the ninth edition of this wonderful community initiative.

orn and raised in East London, the second of five children, the young Muay-Thai kickboxer won her first World Title against Swedish champion Susanna Salijarvi and is now the World Kickboxing Association (WKA) 48kg champion, British Atomweight Champion, European Gold medallist and World bronze medallist.

Anyone who believes that women can’t or shouldn’t fight needs to meet Ruqsana Begum. Ruqsana has also won a number of British titles and European championship gold medals.

Ruqsana fights Muay Thai kickboxing, often referred to as the ‘Art of Eight Limbs’, the national sport of Thailand, where it is far more popular than football. Unlike regular boxing, competitors can use any combination of punches, kicks, knees and elbows to strike an opponent during a bout.

Ruqsana’s sporting career is only scratching the surface. She is an inspirational figure way beyond her own community. She is a motivational speaker, teaches kickboxing classes for women, juggles numerous media commitments, and leads a busy family life with many responsibilities as the eldest girl in a large family.

Ruqsana’s road to glory in one of the hardest sports was not easy. Raised in a conservative Bengali Muslim environment, the thought that a young woman would choose to compete in the kickboxing ring would not sit well with some in her community.

But Ruqsana has fought hard to explode negative perceptions of women in sport, and indeed young British Muslims and remains a shining example to young British people.

An Olympic Torchbearer in 2012 in her home city, Ruqsana has been nominated for several awards for her outstanding contribution towards sport and the community, including working with the Dame Kelly Holmes Get on Track Programme; such as the Sky Sports Sportswoman of the Year, Muslim News Sportswoman of the Year and the UK Muslim Women’s Sportsperson of the Year.

The architecture graduate has also launched a stunning range of sports hijabs; Sports Hijabs by Ruqsana Begum, specifically designed for young Muslim women who might feel too intimidated or ill-equipped to engage in sport.

Mr Abdul Hai Khalique (Junel), Mr Abdul Quayum Khalique (Jamal) and Mr Abdul Muhith (Joynal) are the three brothers behind the internationally renowned grocers Taj Stores in Brick Lane. They took over the business from their late father Alhaj Abdul Khalique who came from Baur Bagh, Moulvibazar, Bangladesh.

Junel, Jamal and Joynal all grew up in Brick Lane, East London and progressed their education to Milestone Preparatory Private School in Bond Street, West London.

Junel studied at Architectural College before joining the family business. His passion for architecture and design saw him design and build his dream home in Essex. Jamal on the other hand attended the private American International College where he completed a Diploma in business before himself joining the family business followed swiftly by the youngest sibling Joynal.

People who can, they achieve it by their quality, hard work, love and trust. Likewise, Taj Stores is the name of an inspiration to British Bangladeshis in the UK. Taj Stores started its journey in 1936, by their late uncle Abdul Jabbar who then passed the business to the late Alhaj Abdul Khalique. Taj Stores is now on its way to celebrate the 80 years of its pride. Outside Bangladesh, if there is any business that has been operating with such goodwill and benevolence that is the Taj Stores.

They are also Directors of Taj Properties Construction/Investment Ltd, NRB Bank Ltd and the UKBCCI. Besides running Taj Stores, the brothers also have other business interests. The three ‘Taj’ brothers hold a very healthy portfolio of properties located across the capital as well as several properties abroad, including Dubai.

The brothers are donors to several charities and these include supporting a Cancer Research Charity in honour of their late mother, and also a charity which specialise in treating problems and illnesses related to kidneys, in honour of their late father.

They also established a charity organisation called J Brothers, whereby the project supports vulnerable and helpless families in Bangladesh by providing sheltered homes, installation of water pumps and donating land.

Jamal quotes “Charity should begin from home. We are inspired from the love and feeling that my father and uncle showed to the people of Bangladesh. So we do not go for formalities, rather, we have started our charity work from our own village.”

Today Bangladeshis are on the way to portray themselves as a successful community in the UK and Taj Stores is one of those names of successes.

The brothers have their own hobbies such as travelling, jet skiing, photography and golf.

During the 60’s, 70’s and 80’s, hardly any Bangla cultural activities in the UK were held without a contribution from Dr Alo Chowdhury. The first Bangla cultural organisation in London, in the mid 60’s, “Bangla Academy”, was his concept. Renowned members, all from East Bengal, would meet at the basement of Lucknow Restaurant, Piccadilly where cultural and progressive political activities were held regularly. Soon, another movement was formed at “East Pakistan House” in North London.

During the War of Liberation in 1971, Dr Alo Chowdhury was actively involved in fundraising, demonstrations and public awareness events throughout the UK. The very first cultural programme, a musical celebrating the birth of Bangladesh, was a ‘Geeti Naksha’ - “O Amar Bangla”. It depicted the struggle and history of Bangladesh through 21 original songs, dances and music, all composed and directed by him. The historic event was attended by members of the Bangladeshi community and the High Commissioner. Due to public demand, the musical was repeated in Conway Hall, central London.

Dr Alo Chowdhury’s contribution to the UK-Bangladeshi cultural sphere continues. His further musicals such as “Love”, “Peace” and “Harmony” all consisted of his own compositions, scores, scripts and dances. He composed and conducted “Songs of Alo Chowdhury in Bengali”, an LP consisting of 12 original songs and music. The patriotic, modern, spiritual, folk and revolutionary tracks were sung by him and his daughter Shadia Syed. It was the first Bangla LP to be cut and produced in the UK, and one of the first ethnic albums to be produced here. Tipu came to the UK in 1989 to join his father, a well-respected restaurateur, establishing the Sonar Bangla Restaurant in 1968 at 46 Hanbury Street, which was both a successful business and crucial forum drumming up support for the Bangladesh Independence Movement in 1971. His father was also an international political organiser for the Jatiya Janata Party.

After studying for a BA Education at MC College Sylhet, Tipu moved and continued his studies in London in English, Computing and MCSE (Microsoft Certified System Engineering). After gaining invaluable restaurant experience for three years, Tipu ran his father’s restaurant before owning and running his own restaurant in 1997.

In 1998, merging his IT knowledge and practical restaurant experience, Tipu and his nephew developed customised EPOS software for restaurant/takeaway businesses. The software used in-house was developed and sold to restaurants/takeaways.

Tipu’s initial aspiration to do something positive for the community politically was transformed into helping to change restaurant business culture introducing technology into restaurant businesses by removing the fear of change and technology and making the software user friendly. Despite early business resistance, Tipu foresaw EPOS as an essential business tool, however small the business, which it has become today.

After starting his software business in 1998, Tipu is now the director owner of Unisoft Solutions Limited. A thriving supplier of specialist catering software to more than 1,000 restaurant/takeaway businesses with a local, national and international customer base. Despite early setbacks, Tipu’s persistence and firm belief that running a successful business is more than material success but requiring integrity, professionalism, adaptability and openness to advice remains central. Unisoft’s survival and advance are a testament to Tipu’s self-belief, work ethic and strong religious faith contributing to success.

Tipu and Unisoft continue to adapt utilising the latest technology with some staff working remotely in Europe, North America and the Asia Pacific.

Tipu runs the business from part of a building originally home to the family restaurant business. Staying close to his roots keeps him well-grounded and appreciative of the support received over the years. He acknowledges the support of family, especially his father, and long-term friends and colleagues including Asfar, Nisar, Abu and Gary. Tipu also recognises the continued loyal customer support since 1998, without which he could not have survived and thrived. Commitment to putting customers first is reflected in 95% of business sales originating from customer recommendations.

Tipu’s main focus in life apart from family and business is active support of community voluntary organisations in the UK and Bangladesh and enjoying martial arts.

Tipu has one younger brother Mohammed A.Hoque and two sisters Salma and Halima. He is a dedicated family man, married to Mrs Rumena Jamjam Chowdhury and has two children, a son E.Hoque Mahdi and daughter Mahira Asma Hoque. They live together with Tipu’s mother in Hanbury Street, off Brick Lane.

Mr Abdul Ahad is a British Bangladeshi who has been involved in the catering industry for nearly thirty years, and it is fair to say that he has been more than a success. His first restaurant was opened in Milton Keynes in 1980 and since then his catering empire has grown stronger and stronger. From the moment Mr Ahad entered the catering trade, he saw a vision to create an ultimate shrine to Indian food. In 1998, his plans began to take shape, and finally in early 2002, the dream became reality. As the owner of the famous Jaipur Restaurant in Milton Keynes, Mr Ahad is the man behind the largest purpose built Indian restaurant in Europe.

The Jaipur Restaurant itself is an architectural landmark building of great beauty, and one that Mr Ahad refers to as his own ‘mini Taj Mahal’. The food and the service inside is equally impressive, having won practically every available award to Indian cuisine. Furthermore, although initially Jaipur was solely an Indian Restaurant, it now houses a Thai restaurant, the Orchid Lounge, on the first floor.

For all his success as a restaurateur, Mr Ahad is equally as successful in other fields – one of which is fundraising for charities. Two of Mr Ahad’s favourite causes are ‘the Jaipur Limb Project’ of the Rotary International and Save the Children charity. The ‘Jaipur Limb Project’ set up in Jaipur, India, is engaged in manufacturing prosthetic limbs for children and adults who have lost their limbs due to disease or accidents. The provision of a new limb gives them a life changing experience enabling them to a full life in many different ways. Mr Ahad is a major supporter and contributor to the project during the last twelve years, raising over £30,000 through the Annual Charity Dinner.

The Ousedale School branch of the Save the Children fund engages in a variety of fundraising activities. Suhail Ibne Aziz was born in Sylhet, Bangladesh. His ancestral home cannot be found or matched in any other venue. In this respect he believes he has made a significant impact as many facilities and amenities are exclusive to Regents Lake and many of these have become its own Unique Selling Points.

Apart from running a venue Aziz is also the director of a new catering company which he and his partners hope to refresh, innovate and bring high quality product and services to the wedding industry. Aziz believes that for too long the wedding catering market has been stagnated with the same choices and its oversubscribed menus. He believes the time has come for a refreshing change and a new beginning for exclusive catering to take a foothold in the marketplace. The focus will be on exceeding towards excellence, quality, choice, service and innovation rather than mass selling low quality mediocre products and services that have saturated the market. Aziz and his partners are passionate about this new approach and are already seeing growth in the demand for premium catering services. The incremental shift towards quality over quantity has started and the hope is that the Bangladeshi consumer will continue in this trend.

Running both of these businesses take up a lot of time, however, Aziz firmly believes in a balanced lifestyle, which is extremely important for both physical and psychological well-being. Aziz spends most of his spare time with family. He lives with his parents, his wife and two children.

Suhail Ibne Aziz

Entrepreneur & Social Work Practitioner

Abdul Aziz is the co-managing director of Regents Lake Banqueting Venue in Tower Hamlets. This is Aziz’s first business venture and as the youngest of the directors he started the company without any prior experience of the wedding industry nor running a big business. His background is in law; he worked for a city law firm as well as Appeal Courts. He had great interest in reading law and at a point wanted to train as a lawyer but his main passion was in understanding and working with people. In particular, he wanted to explore and understand the human cognition; psychological processes; behavioural science and human development. He left his legal work and went to university, where in 2008 he completed his undergraduate honours degree in Psychology. His interest in business and becoming an entrepreneur was coincidental. This interest stemmed partly from his research and study of Business and Occupational Psychology, which uses psychological theories in examining consumer behaviour; psychology of marketing and understanding systems.

Although business was becoming an area of increasing interest, Aziz also wished to pursue a professional career. Whilst setting up Regents Lake, Aziz undertook his professional qualification at the prestigious Tavistock NHS Clinic in Swiss Cottage London. After two years of study, in July 2013 he was awarded his Master of Arts in Social Work. For two years Aziz worked full time setting up and running Regents Lake and at the same time studying and training at the Tavistock. During his training he worked at St Hildas East Community Centre in Shoreditch as well as for Barking & Dagenham Adult Social Services. As a qualified social worker Aziz wishes to pursue his career helping vulnerable adults and children in Tower Hamlets. He sees his career as a means to give back to the very community where he has lived most of his life. He hopes to start his professional career in the near future. Since obtaining his Masters degree in July 2013 Aziz has been able to dedicate himself to the business as he wants to take Regents Lake to a new height, making it the gold standard in the wedding and venue industry. He now works full time and heads the marketing, finance, business strategy, procurement and has many other executive roles. One of Aziz’s core aims for Regents Lake has always been to produce an experience for customers that cannot be found or matched in any other venue. In this respect he believes he and his partners hope to refresh, innovate and bring high quality product and services to the wedding industry. Aziz believes that for too long the wedding catering market has been stagnated with the same choices and its oversubscribed menus. He believes the time has come for a refreshing change and a new beginning for exclusive catering to take a foothold in the marketplace. The focus will be on exceeding towards excellence, quality, choice, service and innovation rather than mass selling low quality mediocre products and services that have saturated the market. Aziz and his partners are passionate about this new approach and are already seeing growth in the demand for premium catering services. The incremental shift towards quality over quantity has started and the hope is that the Bangladeshi consumer will continue in this trend.

Running both of these businesses take up a lot of time, however, Aziz firmly believes in a balanced lifestyle, which is extremely important for both physical and psychological well-being. Aziz spends most of his spare time with family. He lives with his parents, his wife and two children.

Amirul Choudhury is a high-profile entrepreneur with businesses in the telecommunications, property and media sectors. British Bangladeshi Mamun Chowdhury is a highly successful British businessman with over 25 years experience in the design and manufacturing of high-end outerwear. He is of Bangladeshi origin from the village of Moynabad of Chunarughat in the District of Habigonj. Having completed his education in Bangladesh, after a short period in the Middle East, Mamun arrived in Britain in December 1991.

Being innately an entrepreneur, he immediately started setting up his own business. In 1994 he established London Clothing Limited, importing garments from abroad and selling to clients in the UK and rest of Europe. This was supported by setting up his own factory to manufacture garments here in the UK.

Realising quickly how fierce the competition was and that the East End clothing manufacturing trade was on the decline. In 1996, He decided to change his business model and focus only on high-end outerwear and work with some of UK’s top designers. Being always socially responsible, in 1998 his business was large enough to provide opportunities for fashion students to gain work experience. Mamun says that he learnt as much about designing from the top designers as he did from the fashion students.

Mamun used his freshly honed designing skills to design and develop his own range. Still hungry to grow yet humble enough to recognise his skills gaps, he decided that he would explore taking on a partner to grow the business further. So in 2001, Mamun asked his good friend Rob Huson, a top city fashion Executive to join him and thus London Tradition Limited was born.

Mamun’s success has been honoured by her Majesty the Queen by being awarded the highest business accolade in the UK with the Queens Award for Enterprise 2014, International Trade for over 600% growth in 6 years. London Tradition is regarded as a luxury outerwear Brand that inspires and instils confidence in its customers, suppliers and staff because it excels at what it does. Mamun envisions his Company to be the leading luxury heritage outerwear brand in the world with the mission of delivering exceptional quality outerwear garments to inspire its customers. Quality, Service, Value, Innovation, Trust, Fairness and Social Responsibility are the values that guide and inspire Mamun and his Company.

So as a result the UK’s first Bengali community radio station was born it was called Betar Bangla and commenced operation from September 1989 in Lewisham and stopped broadcasting in November 1990.

In 2011 Mr Chowdhury left both the Army and the MPS with the intention to open a business. By 2012 Mr Chowdhury launched Energise – a ‘women only health club’. His aim was to create a comfortable environment where women from all walks of life can exercise and keep fit. The reason for deciding to open a business of this nature is because Mr Chowdhury was fully aware of the fact that women particularly from our Asian/Muslim community face a number of medical issues due to lack of exercise. And although some women are willing to take up exercise, they are reluctant to exercise in a mixed environment. Energise offers a fully-equipped gym, fitness classes, 1-2-1 personal training, an infrared sauna, a beauty lounge and a hair lounge.

Mr Chowdhury is also keen on community development and with that in mind, he is involved in community meetings and works with local councillors and the Police to make environmental improvements, as well as helping to prevent anti-social behaviour.

He has many awards under his belt. His academic career has landed him with awards in both Dhaka (Best Medium prize) and London. Within a very short time, in more ways then one, he has emerged as a true cosmopolitan.

His works are composition based on forms. He often uses flat forms that are given volume and dimension by texturing around them. He often uses the graffito technique, using nails and palette knives to scratch away at the surface. Gray and black are the most dominant colours in his work, according to Taker Hushin, daily Star, Bangladesh.

Abdul Haque was born in Moulvibazar, Bangladesh in 1976, and currently resides in Maida Vale, West London.

Mr Haque studied a BSc in Maths and Computing at Brunel University, and due to complete an MSc in Advance Software Engineering at the University of Westminster in 2009. As a civil servant, he used to work as a specialist software engineer on flight data processes for National Air Traffic Services [NATS].

However, he has now set up his own company and is the Founder & Managing Director of Purple I Technologies, which specializes in IT software and has played an integral part in promoting the EPOS system to the Bangladeshi/Indian Restaurant industry. He is also the Vice-Chairman of Channel S, the television station for Bangladeshis in Britain and Europe, which was founded by his brother Mahee Ferdhous Jalil - where his technological expertise means that he oversees the busy IT department there.

Away from his successful career, Mr Haque enjoys nothing more than travelling the globe. This seems only natural considering his previous career in aviation technology. He has been to many different countries around the world, but feels that Malaysia is his favourite. He cites the friendly nature of the Malaysian people, the cuisine, the value and the fact that it is a strong Islamic nation as reasons why he finds it so favourable. However, he has also come away from places such as the Maldives and Canada with glowing reports.

Aside from travelling, Mr Haque indulges his hobbies of badminton, going to the gym and watching films, although with such a schedule it must be hard for him to fit these in. Mr Haque is married to Mary Rahman who runs her own successful London based PR company, which specialises in promoting clients hailing from the arts, theatre, film and fashion industries.
Ahmadul Haque served as Deputy Mayor of Sandwell Metropolitan Borough Council. He was the first Bangladeshi Councillor elected in the Midland region in 1995 and has been reelected ever since. In 2006 Cllr Haque received an award from Channel S for his services to the community. Cllr Haque arrived in the UK in July 1963 and initially became a member of the Pakistan Welfare Association in Birmingham.

Whilst working in various different companies, Cllr Haque was always keen to get into politics and in 1965 became a member of the old Labour party. With friction simmering in East Pakistan and West Pakistan, Cllr Haque set up the first Bangladesh Action Committee outside of Birmingham in 1971. In the same year Cllr Haque helped raise close to £1500 from contributions made by the residents of North Birmingham for the Bangladesh Action Committee movement as well as setting Midlands Awami League.

Cllr Shafiqul Haque was born in 1960 in Bahubal. His education began at the Bahubal Upazilla Primary School before passing his SSC at Dinanath High School in 1976. When he left high school, he completed his HSC at the Sylhet Government College. This was followed by both a BA and an LLB to become a lawyer in the Habigonj Judge Court.

Cllr Shafiqul Haque moved to the UK in 1991, and quickly became involved in the catering industry. He owned a restaurant from 1991 to 2003. He also enrolled at Guildhall University to complete an LLB.

However, in 1992 Shafiqul Haque, as he was then known, joined the Labour party. This move would prove to have a great impact on his life only a decade later. This was also his first participation with politics in the UK.

In May 2002, Shafiqul Haque became Cllr Shafiqul Haque as he was elected the Councillor for the ward of St. Katharine’s and Wapping in the London borough of Tower Hamlets. Since this initial election, Cllr Haque has proven to be an integral member of Tower Hamlet’s Borough Council. He was chosen to be the Vice-Chairman for the Council’s Development Panel and also the Vice-Chairman of the Excellence of Public Service Committee among other important positions. However, it was in 2004 that Shafiqul Haque’s prominence in Tower Hamlets’ Council really came to the fore as he was chosen to be the Borough’s Deputy Mayor. Only two years later, in June 2006, the man from Bahubal’s ascension into politics would reach its highest point as he was elected the Mayor of Tower Hamlets.

Cllr Shafiqul Haque served as a successful Mayor whilst he held that position and represented the community very well.

Additionally Cllr Haque is involved with various community initiatives. Cllr Haque is married and has three children – two sons and a daughter.

Nasir Jilani is a Firefighter who is based at a fire station in the London Borough of Wandsworth. He joined the London Fire Brigade in January 2006 and is one of the first British Bangladeshi's to serve in the London Fire Brigade.

Nasir was born in 1979 in Balaganj, Sylhet, Bangladesh. His late father Janfor came to the United Kingdom in 1958 as a young man in search for a better life, to work and to provide for his family. Initially he settled in the Yorkshire region of England and worked in the local factories as a machine operator.

Nasir’s father was a selfless man who always put others first. Throughout the 1960’s and 1970’s he assisted numerous people, including his own extended family members and friends to settle in the United Kingdom and to this day those family member, friends and their children and grandchildren approach Nasir to acknowledge and appreciate that without Nasir's father assistance they probably would not be where they are in life and that he was such a great man.

In the mid 1980’s Nasir, his mother and siblings migrated to London, England. Nasir spent his early years in the Limehouse area of the East End of London before moving to Bethnal Green in the early 1990’s. His home was above a fire station in the East End during his childhood and was the source of his inspiration to become a firefighter. After attending Tower Hamlets College, Nasir was thrilled to get through the firefighter selection process in 2004/5.

For Nasir, it has always been about serving the community he grew up in, helping those that are less fortunate and assisting those that are vulnerable in the Bengali community due to generational, language and cultural barriers. Nasir always reminds himself that it’s important to remember your roots and give something positive back to those who look up to him as a role model.

When on duty at incidents, attending to routine inspections or home fire safety visits, Nasir regularly is approached by young British Asians on the streets of London who often tell him that he is a great inspiration to the young Asian generation in the UK as they rarely come across Asian firefighters. They find it a great pleasure in speaking to him as they can relate to him being from a similar background. He is often quizzed about what it’s like to be an Asian Firefighter and what advice and guidance he can provide if they were to choose a career within the UK Fire and Rescue Services.

Nasir has been involved in a number of outreach initiatives over the years with the London Fire Brigade including the Notting Hill Carnival and the Boishakhi Mela (celebration of the Bengali New Year) which is held annually in the London Borough of Tower Hamlets and regularly gets involved in charities and donations particular with organisations in Bangladesh.

Mahbub Murshed is a name for his role in making accountancy an art, bringing accountancy into the drawing room and creating a new dimension to his profession. His success story is now a sensation in the British Bangladeshi community and media. His live TV programme, "Accountancy with Mahbub Murshed" is probably the first ever and the longest running accounting and tax advisory programme in the known world. This only happened because of his vision, hard work, dedication and passion.

Mahbub Murshed, a Certified Practising Accountant, was born in 1962 in Tangail, Bangladesh. Having acquired a government scholarship from Bangladesh in 1982, he went to Bulgaria to study Computer Engineering at Technical University of Varna.

It was from here that he would graft his way to create one of the largest accountancy firms in East London. Upon arrival in Britain in 1987, it became evident that a qualification from a former communist country was not going to be easy for him to acquire a job in his field. With this in mind, he made the brave decision of starting from scratch and changing his path to accountancy. It was late Mr MS Zoha, a prominent Bengali accountant, who inspired Mr Mahbub. Mr Mahbub used to work for one of Mr Zoha’s clients and the turning point of his life was when he went to Mr Zoha’s office to collect his P45 and being offered a job in his office in 1991. Instead of using the conventional method of manual book keeping and accounting, Mr Mahbub became the pioneer among British Bangladeshi by using his computer programming skills to write his own software.

After being in the shadow of Mr Zoha for nearly 10 years and gaining invaluable work experience and academic qualifications, Mr Mahbub decided to set up his own accountancy firm, Mahbub and Co, in 2001 with his younger brother Shah Arif. Starting off with just one employee and a handful of small clients, it was a huge risk for anyone to start with a fragile business in a competitive market. But through dedication, multilingual skills and sincerity, Mr Mahbub was able to expand his business from strength to strength. His friendly professional approach towards his clients has given him a name, “The Accountant with a Smile”.

Additionally Mr Mahbub has supported many of the youth with work experience and career development. Currently Mahbub and Co is holding the ACCA Gold status as an employer, awarded only to the firms which provide high quality work experience in accountancy. After serving the community for more than a decade, Mr Mahbub launched his new and unique initiative to fulfill the community's need for accountancy related issues. He is the key person together with NTV Europe to start producing the programme "Accountancy with Mahbub Murshed”. He believes in empowering the community. So, rather than bringing the people to the accountant’s office he went live on TV to answer the questions in his own capacity.

Being inspired by the success of this TV programme, he decided to set up a training institute in conjunction with his firm where school leavers, accounting students, newly qualified accountants and unemployed people could gain hands-on training and practical knowledge. The initial purpose of this training programme was to break the vicious circle of "not getting a job without experience and no experience could be gained without a job". Mr Mahbub devotes time from his relentless schedule to teach the students.

He also sponsors charities, sports, cultural and community activities. Mr Mahbub is passionate about photography and gardening. His amateur, yet artistic photography is loved by the wider audiences in social media. He plays badminton, listens to music and watches cricket.

Mr Mahbub is married to Nilufa Murshed, daughter of a well known Sylheti businessman of the 1960s – Mr Mosahid Ali. Their son, Nayeen Murshed, has graduated in Biochemistry from Imperial College London, and daughter, Nimah Murshed, is an A Level student.
Nazmul Islam Nuru arrived to the UK in 1977 at the age of 17 and has established himself as a businessman since the 1980s in the UK as well as Bangladesh. He has connections in various businesses as well as being involved within the community in numerous charity organisations.

On full time basis he commenced his practice from June 2003 at 229 East Indian Dock Road, Docklands on the same road 243–247 the Head Office is now based. His remarkable achievements includes advocating in the case of AA & Others (intention to return) [2006] which is used by Immigration Law Practitioners as authority from Higher Courts as guideline case in relation to intention to return. After his success in this case all Sector Based Work Permit holders were able to come to the UK through direct entry clearance and/or appeal process. A further landmark guideline case was Ahmed (Proof of Benefits) [2013]. This settled one of the most complex areas of Immigration Law as commented in many legal journals and the law established that settled spouse/children/relatives claiming benefits on their own right should not affect sponsorship undertaking and cannot be treated as having recourse to public funds. Further in the same case the Home Office was directed to change certain sections of their certain entry clearance applications as it was not consistent with the Immigration Rules and some declared policies.

He dealt with an assignment of lease matter where Dockland Light Railway is the landlord and he was defending one of the leaseholders where there was an absolute restriction on transfer of lease and the case was settled out of Court. He is proud to represent a significant number of Indian restaurant owners (over 400 listed regular clients) all over the UK through recommendations of each other. More recently he picked up certain mistakes in Home Office application forms and wrote to the Home Secretary & Immigration Minister of their department’s negligence. The mistake was admitted and immediately the forms were changed. He is currently working on the most high profile case of his career and came through recommendation of his Middle East based clients. He is acting for the ex-wife and her son of billionaire UAE prince, Al Maktoum, the son of former ruler of Dubai. Al-Maktoum is the current Chairman of Emirates Airlines. This involves their immigration status in the UK and child custody.

He is the principal contributor of Law With N Rahman (Sky Channel 814, Saturday 12:30pm-02:00pm) for the last 5 years which is the most popular interactive legal programme.

Apart from the Head Office in London he runs two branch offices in Cardiff and Coventry serving the Asian communities. Today Taj Solicitors is a household name in the UK and Europe.

Sheik Tuahid was the first son of Sheik Abdul Bari and Sheik Amina Khatun. He hails from the village of Baushi, PO Doshgar, Bishawnath Village in the district of Sylhet. He first came to the UK in 1985.

His enthusiasm for education was obvious, as he decided to attend the Mathew Bolton College. There he studied electronic engineering for a year. His positive and encouraging approach towards the Bangladeshi community was without a doubt noticeable and consequently it resulted in him becoming the General Secretary of Bangladeshi Society in Stoke-On-Trent, Staffordshire from 1987-1990. In 1995, Mr Tuahid was given the role of vice chairman and later, the role of General Secretary of “Onuprash” Jatio Kobi Shangaton, an organization created with the aim to help the Bangladeshi community.

Mr Tuahid founded and became the Chairman of the Midland Press Club in 2005. He decided to take up the role of Editor of Bazaar Voice as he had a good background in journalism. In addition, he was the editor of a Bengali magazine aimed at young Bangladeshis, named Paira. ‘Jodi Pere Ashe Kobu’, a poetry book written by Mr Tuahid, was published in Bangladesh in 2006 and proved to thrive greatly.

At this moment in time, he is the managing editor of the weekly Bangla Voice, the only Bengali newspaper published in the Midlands. Also, he is a representative of the weekly Potrika and the weekly Bangla Mirror, two newspapers involved with the British Bangladeshi community.

When we look back on someone's life that is full of achievements and overcoming challenges, it will always be an inspiration to others. We can see that small decisions can lead to momentous change and shape our values in life and that a person can become a role model for a whole generation; an inspiration that everyone can relate to.

The eldest son of Mr Rofique Uddin, Helal came to the UK with his family in 1980, living in Holloway and then moving to their first family home in Whitechapel. Helal enrolled at Sir John Cass Secondary school, not knowing a single word of English. From these beginnings he has risen to become one of the leading business entrepreneurs in the British Bangladesh community – a multi-lingual business man with a flair for communications. He has a diverse range of successful businesses and an impressive portfolio of properties throughout the UK. With help and support from his parents, siblings, wife, and his two children, Helal has achieved a great deal in his life.

When he was 17, Helal wanted to contribute towards the family’s upkeep and so started his first job, working for Mr Bob Stuart in his camera shop in Whitechapel. Little did he know at the time, but Bob Stuart would not just be his employer, but be a key mentor who would help shape him into the man he is today.

Helal’s self-made empire started off as a small germ of an idea in the basement of Stuart Cameras. This is where all the thinking happened, his background checks were performed, all the brainstorming took place, and his meetings were held.

With his hard earned savings, Helal bought his first restaurant and property at the age just 21. He leased out his restaurant and hit the property market boom. Helal recalls; “We were buying a property on Friday and selling it for profit on Monday”. By 2002, Helal’s property portfolio won him a contract with Tower Hamlets Council and he started renting out his properties to them.

A business opportunist, Helal successfully ventured into the meat and poultry distribution business and was soon turning over a million pounds a year. He sold off his share to his partners and later went on to creating business opportunities with Bob Stuart in the UK & USA.

A man on a mission, he was determined to make a difference in every way possible. When the opportunity came to run his own TV channel, his drive, motivation, and tenacity made it possible to acquire NTV with a group of other directors. By using his experience in construction and photography, he played a major role in recreating the channel and establishing a state of the art studio in Bow. Through 20-hour work schedules and putting his family life on hold - he made NTV a household name – and reached new generations. With the support of his staff & the team, he was highest high standards; by experimenting and being creative, remaining persistent and meticulous, and making the impossible possible.

Helal now owns a Residential Care Home in Newham, a relatively new venture that is very successful. He is now looking to establish further Care Homes across London.

Helal is an active member of the community. He works very closely with charity organisations, mosques and individuals who wish to make a difference to the world. He goes out of his way for those he respects – no matter how young or old – and is an inspiration to us all.
