Dear Mr. Karim,

The Queen has asked me to thank you for your letter of 24th March, and I must first of all apologise for the delay in replying. Due to the very high volume of mail received in recent weeks, it has not been possible to reply until now.

It was very kind of you to send Her Majesty a copy of the Bangla Mirror and the British Bangladeshi Who’s Who 2008, which she found most interesting.

The Queen has taken careful note of your request for a message to be included in the 2009 edition of the publication. Whilst it would not be possible for Her Majesty to send a personal message, I have, nevertheless, been instructed to convey The Queen’s warm good wishes to you and to all concerned with the publication, for a successful and memorable year.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. Sonia Bonici
Senior Correspondence Officer

British Bangladeshi Who’s Who 2009

I am delighted to welcome the second edition of this important publication.

It reflects the immense contribution which British Bangladeshi communities make to all aspects of our national life.

I am sure once again it will prove to be a valuable reference tool and guide for all communities in this country.

With best wishes,

David Cameron
Goodwill Message from High Commissioner

I am delighted to know that ‘British Bangladeshi Who’s Who 2009’ directory is going to be published soon for the second time. This publication will help to recognise the members of our community who have achieved highest success in their personal life as well as in social life. This will also provide an opportunity to the new generation of British-Bangladesh to know more about the hardworking community members who have achieved success in the UK in the areas such as Art & Culture, Business, Education, Government Service, Journalism, Politics and Science and Technology.

People of Bangladesh have always been dignified, hardworking and peaceful. Our community have been working sincerely for personal attainments as well as for the development of the motherland. Bangladesh is proud of her expatriates living in the UK and recognises their contribution for their country of origin. British-Bangladeshi community is gradually merging with the mainstream British society & culture and playing a vital role in strengthening bilateral relations between Bangladesh and the UK.

I wish all success to the British Bangladeshi Community.

(Dr. M Sayeedur Rahman Khan)
Editor in Chief’s Foreword

Another year has gone, and after the relentless efforts of the British Bangladeshi Who’s Who team we have finally compiled the 2009 edition of the publication. This years edition promises to be more exciting and a more enhanced depiction of the community’s success and the achievements of individuals.

The publication highlights some achievers who have received no previous exposure to British Bangladeshis and I feel proud that through this medium, namely the publication, we are able to bring these people to the forefront of our community’s attention as well as to the awareness of Britain.

The awards are designed to recognise the efforts of those who have gone that extra mile and have dedicated large segments of their life or career to become successful and contribute immensely to society.

I am under no illusion that this publication has reached perfection, however, with time and more effort I sincerely believe that we will continue to develop.

Mohammed Abdul Karim (Goni)
Editor-in-Chief
Editor’s Foreword

After the launch of British Bangladeshi Who’s Who last June, I was delighted that the community received the publication positively. However, as with any publication, refinements were necessary to ensure that it was as reflective of the community’s achievements as possible and practicable.

This year we have unearthed more success stories and high flyers that have inevitably made the 2009 edition of this publication more complete than the previous edition and in my opinion a great read.

The idea is that the publication records accomplishments of individuals and showcases meritorious individuals to mainstream Britain. Moreover, it is the publication and the individual successes taken collectively that highlight the endeavours of the British Bangladeshi community as a whole.

With the introduction of the awards this year, I felt that the publication can develop further and the concept of British Bangladeshi Who’s Who will be better presented. The awards are given to eminent individuals who we (the team) think deserve the recognition for the contribution they have made during the course of their careers, or those who are rising stars within the community.

I hope you enjoy this year’s edition.

Mr Abdul Ahad is a British Bangladeshi who has been working in the catering industry for nearly thirty years, and it is fair to say that he has been more than a success.

His first restaurant was opened in Milton Keynes in 1980 and since then, his catering empire has grown stronger and stronger. From the moment Mr Ahad entered the catering trade, he saw a vision to create an ultimate shrine to Indian food. In 1998, his plans began to take shape, and finally in early 2002, the dream became reality.

As the owner of the famous, Jaipur Restaurant in Milton Keynes, Mr Ahad is the man behind the largest purpose built Indian restaurant in Europe.

The Jaipur Restaurant itself is an architectural landmark building of great beauty, and one that Mr Ahad refers to as his own ‘mini Taj Mahal’. The food and the service inside is equally impressive, having won practically every available award to Indian cuisine.

Furthermore, although initially Jaipur was solely an Indian Restaurant, it now houses a Thai restaurant, the Orchid Lounge, on the first floor.

For all his success as a restaurateur, Mr Ahad is equally as successful in other fields—one of which is fundraising for charities. Two of Mr Ahad’s favourite causes are ‘the Jaipur Limb Project’ of the Rotary International and Save the Children charity.

The ‘Jaipur Limb Project’ set up in Jaipur, India, is engaged in manufacturing prosthetic limbs for children and adults who have lost their limbs due to disease or accidents. The provision of a new limb gives them a life changing experience enabling them to a full life in many different ways. Mr Ahad is a major supporter and contributor to the project during the last twelve years, raising over £30,000 through the Annual Charity Dinner.

The Ousedale School branch of the Save the Children fund engages in a variety of fundraising activities. For last 19 years, the Annual Gala Dinner at the Jaipur is one of the highlights of the fundraising calendar and gives everyone a chance to participate either by donating for the raffle draw or by attending the dinner. As recognition of his services, Mr Ahad was made the Honorary President of the Ousedale School branch of the Charity.

Mr Ahad is also a high profile and integral member of Britain’s Bangladeshi community and has supported the development of schools, mosques, madrassas and other charity projects in his parental village in Sylhet.

Mr Haque studied a BSc in Maths and Computing at Brunel University, and due to complete an MSc in Advance Software Engineering at the University of Westminster in 2009.

Abdul Haque is a man with many strings attached to his bow. As a civil servant, he used to work as a specialist software engineer on flight data processes for National Air Traffic Services [NATS]. However, he has now set up his own company and is the Founder & Managing Director of Purple I Technologies, which specializes in IT software and has played an integral part in promoting the EPOS system to the Bangladeshi/Indian Restaurant industry.

He is also the Vice-Chairman of Channel S, the television station for Bangladeshis in Britain and Europe, which was founded by his brother Mahee Ferdhous Jalil - where his technological expertise means that he oversees the busy IT department there.

Away from his successful career, Mr Haque enjoys nothing more than travelling the globe. This seems only natural considering his previous career in aviation technology. He has been to many different countries around the world, but feels that Malaysia is his favourite. He cites the friendly nature of the Malaysian people, the cuisine, the value and the fact that it is a strong Islamic nation as reasons why he finds it so favourable. However, he has also come away from places such as the Maldives and Canada with glowing reports.

Aside from travelling, Mr Haque indulges his hobbies of badminton, going to the gym and watching films, although with such a schedule it must be hard for him to fit these in. Mr Haque is married to Mary Rahman who runs her own successful London based PR company, which specializes in promoting clients hailing from the arts, theatre, film and fashion industries.
Ahmadul Haque served Deputy Mayor of Sandwell Metropolitan Borough Council. He was the first Bangladeshi Councillor elected in the Midland region in 1995 and has been reelected ever since.

In 2006 Cllr Haque received an award from Channel 5 for his services to the community.

Cllr Haque arrived in the UK in July 1963 and initially became a member of the Pakistan Welfare Association in Birmingham.

Whilst working in various different companies, Cllr Haque was always keen to get into politics and in 1965 became a member of the old Labour party. With friction simmering in East Pakistan and West Pakistan, Cllr Haque set up the first Bangladesh Action Committee outside of Birmingham in 1971. In the same year Cllr Haque helped raise close to £1500 from contributions made by the residents of North Birmingham for the Bangladesh Action Committee movement as well as setting Midlands Awami League.

Cllr Haque is a very active member of the Bangladeshi community always campaigned for equality and as a result in 1976 received an award from the Bangladeshi High Commission.

Through effort and having to overcome numerous obstacles, Cllr Haque also helped set up the Tipton Muslim Trust Association which is now referred to as Al-Islah Trust and a community centre for local Muslims in Tipton. Clearly evident from his involvement with the Bangladesh Women’s Association and his executive position with the Tipton Action Group, Cllr Haque tries to serve all members of the community.

In the mid eighties, Cllr Haque purchased a terraced house via the trust and later set up the Sandwell Confederation of Bangladeshi Muslim Organisation (SCOBMO).

Cllr Haque is also a founder member of the City Challenge Project as well as Bangladesh Youth Movement. Through over twenty years of persistence and hard work campaigning for level crossings in Tipton a 2.2 million pound project finally commenced last year. Cllr Haque also played a pivotal role during Ms Syeda Khatun’s election campaign who later became the first Bangladeshi female councillor in the Midlands area in 1999.

Cllr Shafiqul Haque was born in 1960 in Bahubal. His education began at the Bahubal Upazilla Primary School before passing his SSC at Dinanath High School in 1976. Cllr Haque moved to the UK in 1991, and quickly became involved in the catering industry. He owned a restaurant from 1991 to 2003. He also enrolled at Guildhall University to complete an LLB.

However, in 1992 Shafiqul Haque, as he was then known, joined the Labour party. This move would prove to have a great impact on his life only a decade later. This was also his first participation with politics in the UK.

In May 2002, Shafiqul Haque became Cllr Shafiqul Haque as he was elected the Councillor for the ward of St. Katharine’s and Wapping in the London borough of Tower Hamlets. Since this initial election, Cllr Haque has proven to be an integral member of Tower Hamlet’s Borough Council. He was chosen to be the Vice-Chairman for the Council’s Development Panel and also the Vice-Chairman of the Excellence of Public Service Committee among other important positions.

However, it was in 2004 that Shafiqul Haque’s prominence in Tower Hamlets’ Council really came to the fore as he was chosen to be the Borough’s Deputy Mayor. Only two years later, in June 2006, the man from Bahubal’s ascension into politics would reach its highest point as he was elected the Mayor of Tower Hamlets.

Cllr Shafiqul Haque served as a successful Mayor whilst he held that position and represented the community very well.

Currently Mr Haque is still a Labour party councillor for St. Katharine’s and Wapping.

Md. Shamsuddin Khan was born in 1935 in Matiura, under the Bianibazaar Upazilla in Sylhet. He is the second son of late Haji Taj Khan and Tayamunnessa Khanom. Mr. Khan primarily worked at an English restaurant when he arrived in the UK in 1955, aged 20.

It was in 1958 when he started his first business when he opened a restaurant, which he called Moharani. This restaurant is situated in Clapham Common, is one of the most famous and old restaurants in the UK. Two other branches of the Moharani restaurant have been opened ever since, one located in Clapham North and one in Camden Town. Mr. Khan is one of the owners of a large grocery store named Kushiara Cash and Carry in the East End of London. On top of that, he has an enormous investment in the tea estates in Sylhet and also owns several houses in London.

Founding member of the Bianibazaar Janakallyan Samity UK, of which he is now the advisor, and also a trustee of the Historic Bangladesh Centre in London, Mr. Khan is involved in various political and socio-cultural organizations, both in Bangladesh and the UK. In addition he has played a key role in the establishment of Bianibazaar College, by donating money towards it. Mathiura High School and Mathiura Girls’ High School are two of many educational institutions of which Md. Shamsuddin Khan is a patron. Furthermore, he was the chairman of the College Development Committee for a long period of time.

Before all this, Mr. Khan’s political career began with Pakistan Welfare Association which later become Bangladesh Welfare Association. Inspired by Sheikh Mujib, he also decided to join the Awami League once it had been set up in the UK. Throughout his role in the Awami league changed from the treasurer, to the vice president, and now, he is the president.

He played a significant role throughout the Liberation War in 1971 by fundraising. During the 1970 elections, he was the Awami League candidate in the Bianibazaar-Golapgonj constituency.

Here, in the UK, Shamsuddin Khan is a member of the Labour party.

At present, Md. Shamsuddin Khan Resides with his wife Mrs. Safarun Nesa Khanom and their three children.

Mr Shahid-Ullah Khan was born in the small village of Noakhali in Bangladesh, an area he simply yet lovingly refers to as ‘the land of rivers’. He moved to England in 1975 and since then has left an impressive mark on the British Bangladeshi community.

In 1982, he opened a restaurant in his new home Leicester. The restaurant, called Ashoka, has been such a success that it improves year on year, and is known as one of the best in the UK.

However, running a restaurant appears to be more of a side-project for Mr Khan. His real passion seems to revolve around the community.

Since 1978, he has been a member of the Labour party and in the past has helped to raise funds for the Lord Mayor Appeal in Leicester. These two interests only make up a small part of the significant role that Mr Khan plays for many organisations. He has also done work for Bangladesh Jubo Shongo, the Bangladesh Youth and Cultural Shomiti, the Greater Noakhali Association UK, the Durrus Salam Mosque and the East Midlands Bangladeshi Development Association to name but a few.

Another impressive aspect of Mr Khan’s philanthropic nature is that, aside from helping his own community, he is also prepared to help those communities of which he does not belong. For example, in 2006, he held a number of charity meals in his restaurant to help support fundraising for victims of the tsunami in Indonesia and Sri Lanka.

However, it is also important to note Mr Khan’s extensive work with the communities of Leicester. He claims that the strong community spirit in Leicester reminds him of life in Noakhali, and this is why he has such an affinity with his neighbourhood.

Aside from his work, Shahid-Ullah Khan is a proud family man. He is married and has three children – two daughters and a son.

According to Mr Khan, it is his family, and more specifically his wife, who has given him the inspiration to be the man that he is today.
